“Black Nationalism is the only real solution for Black People in the United States.”

SO BLACK IS BACK

For some of Us, Black never went anywhere.

I didn't attend the December meeting in Cincinnati. I'm sure there were some dynamic Brothers and Sisters there. I can say I've been to meetings like that before. Most of the times, the people who congregate in that type of setting are good people with good intentions, but sometimes good people with good intentions fail to declare what needs to be declared, or attempt to do what needs to be attempted.

According to information I read, the goal of the discussions and exchanges was "to reach a consensus and commitment to begin the process of building institutions integrating education, economic empowerment, political development, community service, communications, technology and spiritual development..." I felt an absence as I read that because the most important institution We need was not mentioned. The most important institution We need is a military, a force that We can use to inflict harm on those who try to keep Us from developing what We have the right to develop.

There can be cocker spaniels with good intentions, and there can be pit bulls with good intentions. In some situations, cocker spaniels are exactly what the doctor ordered. In other situations, nothing less than pit bulls will do.

The situation of Black People in white power America is not one that academics can address adequately. The situation of Black People in white power America revolves around one central issue-- SELF DETERMINATION! If Black is Back, some individuals must have regained the courage to declare that integrating with white power is not in Black People's interest. If Black is Back, some individuals must have regained the audacity to remind Black People that "by any means necessary" includes generating the amount of hell needed to convince white power America that it's cheaper for them to relinquish the wealth that belongs to Us so We can relocate in the part of this land mass that belongs to Us and govern Ourselves.

If Black People want to accept donations from Muammar Qaddafi or the Taliban even if displeases the US government, Black People should be able to. That is part of what Black is Back should be all about. If Black People want to establish formal alliances with revolutionary governments even if displeases the US government, Black People should be able to. That is part of what Black is Back should be all about. If Black leaders launch a campaign instructing Black mothers, fathers and children to stay out of white America's armies and instead put their lives on the line in defense of a Black Power reality, they should be able to do so. That is part of what Black is Back should be all about.

Black is Back can not be steered by economic considerations, unless the economics is along the lines of Castro's Cuba or Chavez' Venezuela. We shouldn't want a larger slice of white America's blood soaked pie; that would mean white is still in the lead. We don't need Black capitalism, and We certainly don't need any Black capitalists. We don't need anything geared toward gaining more for Black People within the white American context? Black is Back should mean the white American context is passé for Us.

Black will not be back until We get the pit bulls in on the discussions and exchanges.

Someone who attended the meeting said "...some things got away from where we wanted them to go." I wonder what that means?
